FOURTH ROW — Maxwell Gifford, Mary McCoy, Doris Monty, Norma Allen, Louise Tripp, Evelyn Chieppa, Shirley Leger, Lucille Poirier.

YEAR BOOK STAFF

SEATED — Shirley Leger, Vice-President; Gertrude Noel, Secretary.

STANDING — Walter Paseika, President; Edmund Medeiros, Treasurer.

CLASS HISTORY

We entered the portals of New Bedford Vocational on a sunny September morn in 1938.

Our freshman year was a time of orientation. It will be remembered by many for the high wind and tidal wave which threatened to completely damage our homes.

Soon we were heading for summer vacations with an eye on our Sophomore year. Second year students! My but we felt proud. We were no longer self conscious but could find our way around without too much help from the upper class students. Our Sophomore year soon passed and we were Juniors.

We elected class officers and our chosen ones were Walter Pasioka president, Doris Monty, vice president, Irene Grudzien, secretary, and Gerald Monjeau, treasurer. Miss Glorianna Robitaille and Mr. Walter Janiak were the advisors.

We sponsored a roller skating party before Christmas and one at Mid-Lent. We had quite a few socials and dances.

Our Junior prom was the highlight of our junior year and proved very successful. After a well earned vacation we re-entered as seniors.

Our last year, a year we had looked forward to since our arrival, was overshadowed by World War 2 and I am sure it is stamped on our minds forever.

At our first senior meeting we elected Walter Pasioka to preside again as president of the class, Shirley Leger was elected vice president, Gertrude Noel, secretary, and Edmund Medeiros, treasurer. Our class advisors were Mrs. Estelle Oldfield, who was replaced by Miss Evelyn Kane, when Mrs. Oldfield left to become Canteen director at Red Cross Headquarters. Mr. Sterling Wilson was also class advisor.

The first annual Junior Red Cross dance was held at the Hammond Auditorium in October. We held a roller skating party before Christmas. We held socials and a spring frolic.

From this time on we were kept busy with our school work and graduation activities, such as class day, class outing, senior banquet, senior prom and Mother and Daughter Banquet. A good time was had by all.

As graduation approached us, a number of our fellow students left to use the education they had received in industrial plants and several of them entered the armed forces.

We leave the school with many fond remembrances to enter the world conscious that ours is the task of fighting for the freedom of mankind. To this we all, everyone, are ready "to pledge our lives our fortunes and our sacred honor."

Claire Query.

CLASS WILL

We, the members of the Class of 1942, of the New Bedford Vocational School, of the city of New Bedford, state of Massachusetts, the county of Bristol, being of sound mind and memory, (we hope), do make and declare this to be our last will and testament.

We hereby bequeath the following:

To Mr. Mackintosh we express our profound thanks and appreciation for the deep interest and care he has given us for the past four years.

To Miss Horne, our appreciation and affection.

To the faculty, we extend our deepest gratitude for their endeavors to make our paths in life easier.

To our class advisors, we leave our sincere thanks for their cooperation and help in solving our many problems.

To Miss Goggin we leave our sincere gratitude for the help she so willingly has given to make this book a success.

To the Juniors we leave the trouble of getting together next year's yearbook.

To the Sophomores, the honor of having class officers and advisors.

To the Freshmen, we leave three happy years of struggling.

Alice Duarte leaves her neatness.

Yazbeck Zatir leaves the electrical shop more room to work in.

George Caron leaves his romantic habits to anyone who can use his style.

Louise Fortes leaves her ability to chew gum in class without being caught.

Robert Cooper leaves his window facing the girls' building to John Gibson.

Kathleen Quail leaves her voice to anyone who will serenade Miss Cunningham during senior sewing classes.

Gerald Monjeau leaves an unusable pair of football shoes to Mr. Mack.

Edmund Medeiros finally leaves the girls' building.

Rachel Durocher leaves her seat in the laundry room to anyone who can deal with Miss Robitaille.

Ernest Lewis leaves his ability to box to the next Golden Gloves champion.

Alice Tolentino leaves her jokes and smiles to Dorothy Christian.

Marc Poirier leaves his companionship with the cat in the Related Building to any freshmen that likes animals.

Annie Higgins leaves to Marjorie Powers her dishwashing ability.

Walter Pasioka finally leaves the girls alone. ? ?

William Rhodes leaves the school without a wolf (Oh Yeah!)

Shirley Leger leaves her conduct slips to any good junior.

Lucille Durocher leaves her back seat in Miss Baker's room to the next art specialist who would enjoy watching our sport heroes go up and down to the athletic room.

Raymond Nault leaves his position as vice president in charge of cleaning up, to join the Navy.

Oscar Doane finally leaves Miss Robitaille in peace.

Lucien Letendre leaves his good looks to the next New Year's baby.

Fred Beaumont leaves the art gallery under his bench to Donald Cree.

Stella Fiejdasz leaves her tardiness to school to any junior who gets here early.

Tadeusz Swiszczy finally stops walking girls home from school.

Roger Beaulieu leaves a barrel of crankcase drainings to Al Saucier to use in his car.

Gertrude Kennedy leaves her seat in Algebra to any Junior who can struggle in it.

Maxwell Gifford leaves all the girls heartbroken.

"We believe in service for others, in health of body and mind to fit us for better service and world wide friendship. For this reason, we are joining the American Red Cross. We will help to make its work successful in our school and community and will work together everywhere in our own and other lands." This is the creed that the students of the New Bedford Vocational school have used in carrying on the Junior Red Cross.

The second year of Junior Red Cross work began enthusiastically with the opening meeting. After the election of officers (President, Doris Monty; Vice President, Norma Allen; Secretary, Shirley Jones; Treasurer, Dorothy Poirier), an explanation of the purpose of the organization and suggestions for future activities were discussed.

One of our first plans was to hold a joint dance with New Bedford High School October 24. Among invited guests were Mayor and Mrs. Glynn who led the grand march, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Crowell, Major and Mrs. Walter R. Rogers and Mr. and Mrs. William R. Mackintosh. The dance was considered a huge success, with the students of Vocational school selling 375 tickets. Sixty dollars, part of the profits, was used to buy blood plasma for St. Luke's Hospital. The Junior Red Cross of New Bedford Vocational School was the first local organization to buy this plasma.

Other activities that our Junior Red Cross has carried on are candy sales, which are held every noon hour with profits added to our treasury, and ward parties at Camp Edwards Station Hospital and Fort Rodman with girls from the school making and serving sandwiches and cookies to the convalescing soldiers. These parties were well received by the sick boys at the Camps. Many scrapbooks and cribbage boards were sent to the Station Hospital at Camp Edwards, Fort Rodman and also Bedford Veterans Hospital. Tray favors and popcorn balls were also sent to the above organizations.

As a special service the Junior Red Cross bought a pair of glasses for a girl student who needed them and could not afford them.

Each sewing major relinquished 130 hours of her time to sew for the American Red Cross, 80 dresses, 60 boys shorts were made.

Some of the Senior girls served at a tea for the opening of the New Chapter House.

One of our last projects was a play presented by the students of the school called "Hanging Uncle Henry." The cast included Theophila Banas, Warren Whalley, Raymond Poirier, Emma Stringer, Jacqueline Genest was prompter. Miss Margaret M. Goggin was the director and Mrs. Dorothy Howland our Red Cross director arranged for the program which was given at Camp Edwards.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council is composed of a governing board of 11 representatives: Four Seniors; three Juniors; 2 Sophomores; 2 Freshmen; and a subcouncil of division presidents.

The representatives from the 3 upper classes are elected by the students the last week of the school year. The Freshman representatives are appointed the first week of October by a teacher committee. The officers, President; Vice President; Secretary, Treasurer, and traffic chief are elected at the first meeting.

Meetings are held at a time and place decided on at the first meeting. Representatives present to the meeting for discussion any school problems which have been brought to their attention by the students. Recommendations by the council are then submitted in writing to the head of the department for decisions.

Duties of officers:

President — President acts as head of the student body and will preside at all meetings of the council.

Vice President — will take place of president in absence.

Secretary and Treasurer — The Secretary and Treasurer will keep the minutes of all meetings, conduct any financial business of the organization and keep a record of important school events for future references.

Traffic Chief — The Traffic Chief will conduct meetings of the traffic squad and be responsible for all traffic deputies.

Stella Fiejdasz.

CLASS PROPHECY

The 1962 "Flying Submarine" of that great institution of secondary instruction, that West Point of Industry, is arriving only a half hour late, but chief engineer Daniel Cabral and his assistant fireman, Maxwell Gifford, still insist they would have been on time if the time was not changed so often. Aboard the Pink Rhodendoro we find such high ranking stars of stage and screen as Lucien "Tyrone" Letendre, Robert "Taylor" Cooper, Miss "Hedy" Dorothy Gladu Lamarr, and Miss "Ann" Gertrude Noel Sheridan, those two comedians "Baby Tank" Zatir and Stephen "Deadpan" Sayles. Also that up-and-coming pugilist of modern fisticuffs, that threat to "Not-for-long-Champ Joe Louis", little Ernest Lewis.

Arriving at the depot in this refugee from the junk pile, we are greeted by his excellency the mayor, Walter Pasieka, his assistants, William Rooney, "Boogie woogie" Gordon Latham and secretary, Ruth Mitchell. In the foreground the town's leading business men, "Seegar" Arthur Furtado,, Frank Pisarczyk, and big boss "Little Caesar" Edmond Metevier. With them are the prominent social workers, Lucille Youngson, Gertrude Kennedy, Annie Higgins, and Evelyn Chieppa.

In this cultural atmosphere we hear the voices of the Green Front "Harmonizers", Claire Query, Norma Allen, Margie Waddington and Doris Avery accompanied on the piano by Master John McGough, king of the "88". On the station platform is artiste Mr. Maurice Poirier, easel before him, brush in hand ready to sketch a plan for his sister Lucille's exclusive dress shoppe but with his eye on Lucille "Ball" Durocher. The janitor, Frank Garcia, is desperately trying to quiet down the canteen waitress, Rita Lowles, who has all she can do to satisfy that little package of dynamite, Johnnie Koska. Freddy Sawicki who has just sneaked out without being seen by the women, is teaching Master Roger Beaulieu to oil-ball bearings but is talking about the light of his life.

Someone in the crowd mentioned food, so off to the best dining joint in town we go, "Sloppy" Lavimoniere and son, Art Ringuette's place. At the door and as usual giving the customers the once-over twice, stands that tall structure with a large foundation, "Feet" Tadeusz Swiszc. After much work getting past the door with our hostesses, Stella Fiejdasz, and Gertrude Noel, we were greeted by the manager, Oscar Doane ,Jr. With his staff of waiters, Tony Almeida, Walter Blecharczyk, James Madruga and waitresses, Elsie Merkman, Louise and Evelyn Tripp and Mary Nickowal.

After wrestling with a "T" bone steak, mostly "T bone", and raising a rumpus, husky Joe Valentine was thrown out by those two bouncers, Gerald Monjeau and Alexander Bzydra. Suddenly the lights were dimmed and under the spotlight we hear Red "Skelton" Potter introducing that Casanova, that romantic idol of the stage and "scream", Arthur "Bunny" Wood. After singing a few bars accompanied by a chorus of Conga dancers led by Mary McCoy and supported by Emma Pinto, Louise Fortes, and Alice Tolantino, there is a great commotion, Walter "Pidgeon" Rudnick has just walked in with Shirley "Temple" Leger. Everyone is crowding Walter for autographs apparently but their attentions turn out to be for Shirley.

By now the atmosphere is "crummy", so we leave with those cowboys on wheels, Al Espindola, Ray Dumas, and Ed Grinrod, who do nothing but worry about tires. We are now on our way to the amusement center. The shortest way was to cut through the out-skirts, but our drivers were sure where the center would be. On our way we were stopped by the future treasurer of the city, Edmund "Zing" Medeiros and his wife, Stella Fiejdasz. He'd crack a joke and laugh alone while she would hand out leaflets. Promising this human dynamo our votes we departed only to persuade George Caron to resign his camouflaging position. He was painting white lines black on one of the city streets. Asking us to wait while he went for Fred Beaumont who was painting all his black lines white again. Observing this unusual performance are the two window shoppers, Antonia Cruz and Josepha Lopes. We meet the Electrical Wonders led by George Black, John Britto and the Einstein-baffling-quizzical kid, Steve Gwozdz.

Among the crowd were such prominent characters, as Alcide Ross, Joe Ponichtera, Rachel Durocher, Alice Duarte, Eddie Gaj, and Steve Carney, we head once more for our long awaited destination. Reaching the Billy Rhodes Frolic Center we appoint Alfred Dabrowski to purchase the tickets from Marion Yehle, the ticket cashier. No wonder he took so long. No sooner do we enter the park, than we see Ernest Richards and his side kick, John Cooper, selling sugar at 50c a pound. Further on we see Dr. Hugh Murray who has just performed an operation one of the world's most priceless possessions, owned and ruined by R. Waine—A TIRE! His assistant nurses, Ursula Neary and Theophila Banas, were more attentive toward Oliver Osborne and Joe Bauer, two of the handsomest up-and-coming citizens who just came along for the ride.

On leaving the hospital, we meet Robert Hoffer, and George Church, now owners of that bus in which they monopolized the rear seat for scenic purposes, arguing how they would put the Railway Co. out of business. Farther down is a little excitement, Johnny Beardsworth is running as fast as Herby Ellis can carry him, from Doris Monty who is trying to sell him a $. ticket to the Policemen's Ball.

Leaving Doris who seems to have everything well in hand, we find Admiral MacCormack busy ferrying William Shorey across the fish-pond, assisted by Raymond Nault who is busy trying to keep the boat afloat regardless of the missing bottom. It didn't take us long to tire of that so off we go to our next meeting place. Here we find that draftsman Bob Johnson, who has been drafted in the W. A. C. R. (Women's Auxiliary Cooking Reserves) under the supervision of Lorraine Arvisais. How did he get away with it? By this time night has fallen and foaming at the mouth, full of frenzy, comes Wilbur Whitaker and Arthur Whally, shouting and screaming, "air raid". Well, we can't leave now so into the nearest shelter we go only to find Chester Ras, chief air raid warden, hiding and trembling with fear while Emily Kolaczewska and Stephanie Tenczar are bravely taking over his duties. One hour went by but nothing happened, so out we came to find Raymond "Bull" Martin and Frances Travers in a heated argument as to which one was the most fearless, handsome fellow. We settled the matter by picking Gunga Din.

Suddenly all eyes and ears are attracted to a bushy-haired poetic-looking figure who has lost himself in a weird dream of words and wild imagination. This romantic figure perched on top of a cracker barrel, waving his arms and tearing his hair, turns out to be none other than Jon Ferreira. Without warning a book descends upon his head and startled, he gazes upon Mr. Holt. "What a nightmare I had!" exclaims Jon.

The soccer team had another successful season. "Huck" Roppollo came up with some spectacular saves during the season to classify him as one of the best goal tenders to don a Vocational uniform. Leading scorers were Correia, 12; Wood, 5; Smith and Potter, 3 each; "Bunny" Wood, captained the team.

TRACK

Our track team had a fairly successful season. We participated in the Fitchburg Relays and the Massachusetts State High School Relays. Concord nosed us out 10 to 9 for Class B Championship. Only one point stopped our team from securing permanent possession of the cup. In the Massachusetts State High Relay Carnival we came in second in four events and second in class to Turners Falls. Charles Morse was Captain.

Dougie Menard captained our 41-42 basketball squad. "Rusty" Ramos and Norm Catelli were the high scoring forwards while Doug Menard and John Remillard displayed fine backboard work. Kenny Ashworth set and played some fine floor games. In the Fairhaven game "Rusty" Ramos set up a scoring record of 52 points in one game. "Rusty" also was top man in most points per game in Bristol County. National Defense took the following men: Wood, Pisarczyk, Tapper, and Kozlowsky.
